

CORPORATE WELLNESS

Perhaps the greatest challenge today in health care is in taking action against many of today's chronic degenerative diseases before they need the use of technological and medical advances. The issue of health may have been foreign to employers a few years ago but today, with so much time being lost at work from illness and poor productivity due to low levels of endurance, and other indicators that are performance related: high performance in the workplace depends predominantly on staff wellness.

Companies invest in training to improve time management, communication, sales, or leadership skills, but high performance has a great deal to do with physical and mental wellness. When an employee is strong and resilient physically, they are stronger mentally and emotionally, and they perform better! Sustaining peak performance in the face of change, long hours, deadlines, and pressure is now a requirement for all managers, executives and employees.

Our Choi Kwang-Do Corporate Wellness Program offers companies an exciting unique martial arts and wellness program that will work on building Physical, Emotional, and Mental Strength and bring a variety of positive benefits to workers and families. The art itself is noncontact and therefore safe for practitioners of all ages. Self-defense skills are developed in a friendly, noncompetitive class environment where personal development is paramount. This way, skills such as concentration, listening, and focus can be worked on, developed and refined. Fitness develops naturally as a result of training in the gradually progressive, complete, holistic system designed by Grandmaster Kwang Jo Choi.

SELF-DEFENSE COURSES

Because of the powerful nature of the art, students are taught that the first goal is to avoid a potentially dangerous situation. This includes understanding different levels of awareness and training intuition - paying attention to how you are feeling in a particular area or about someone nearby. Then Students learn to deal with oncoming attacks and react with explosive force using techniques that are safe and easy to perform. Finally, you will learn how to deal with close range attacks - opponents grabbing them in hold - and respond with a "never give up" means to recover and counter attack.

All of this works to enhance inner confidence and peace of mind in the knowledge that you can protect yourself! This is a fun, energetic class full of support and encouragement and is available for women or corporate/community groups in our facility or yours.

One Month Course (4 classes) $40
2-Hour Course $20
